This leaflet is to give you more information about how to take the carbohydrate drinks before surgery.

You will be prescribed these drinks at your pre-operative assessment.

What is Nutricia PreOp?

Nutricia PreOp is a clear, still, lemon flavoured carbohydrate drink. It is easy to digest and can help you cope with surgery and improve your recovery time.

How do I take Nutricia PreOp?

- Nutricia PreOp is best served chilled. Shake well before use. Once you open a carton you should aim to drink it within four hours. Each carton is 200ml.
- Nutricia PreOp is gluten, lactose and fibre free.

How do I take Nutricia PreOp if I am on a morning surgical list?

- The day before surgery:
From 6pm drink four cartons of Nutricia PreOp.
- The day of surgery:
Take two cartons of Nutricia PreOp: To be finished at least two hours before your surgery (before 7am).

How do I take Nutricia PreOp if I am on an afternoon surgical list?

- The day before surgery:
From 6pm drink four cartons of Nutricia PreOp.
- The morning of surgery:
Drink two cartons of Nutricia PreOp (before 12pm).

What if I have diabetes?

Nutricia PreOp is not suitable for patients with insulin treated diabetes. However, if your diabetes is controlled with diet or tablets then Nutricia PreOp is ok for you to take. If you are unsure whether PreOp is suitable for you or have any questions, please ask your pre-assessment nurse.

Nutricia PreOp is also not suitable if you have delayed gastric emptying (gastroparesis)

What if I am taking other nutritional supplements?

Nutritional supplements such as Fortisip, Ensure Plus, and Complan are different from Nutricia PreOp. These supplements are digested in the same way as food therefore should be taken whilst you are allowed to eat food before your surgery.

Certain operations require a preparation to clear the bowel, therefore check with your pre-assessment nurse who will give you specific instructions at your appointment.
