Your Doctor has arranged for you to have an MRI scan

An MRI scan takes photos of the inside of your body

The nurses on the ward will give a gown to wear for your scan

And also make sure your not wearing any metal, like jewellery

A porter will take you to the Radiology Department

A nurse can come too if you would like

You will meet the radiographer

They will be wearing special clothing

This is to keep you safe

They will ask you questions about your medical history

They will show you the MRI scanner

You lie down on the bed on your back

If you are having a head or neck scan you will have a helmet placed over you

It has a mirror on it so you can see the radiographer through the window

If you are having a scan of your abdomen or pelvis you will have a band over your tummy

When it takes the pictures the scanner is very noisy

It makes lots of banging sounds

To make it quieter you can wear earplugs and headphones

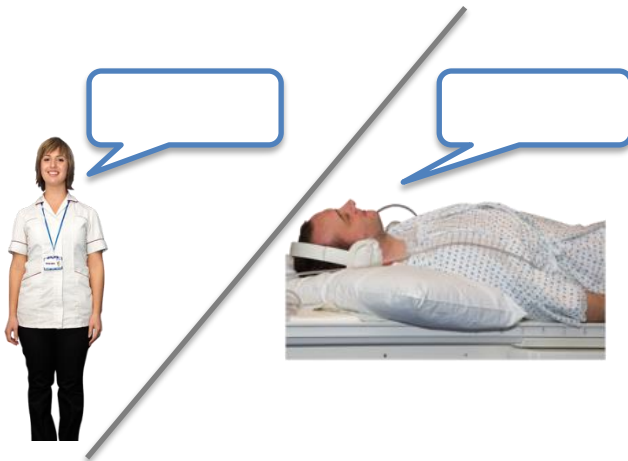

You can have music playing during your scan

You can bring your favourite CD

You will have a buzzer to hold

Squeeze it if you need help

During the scan the radiographer can talk to you and can hear you talk to them

It is very important that you keep still when it is noisy

This is when the pictures are taken

Your scan may take up to half an hour

A porter will bring you back to the ward when it is finished

A Specialist Doctor will read the scan

They will send the results to your doctor
on the ward
