

York Teaching Hospital Library Service

Scarborough Hospital Library

York Teaching Hospital Library

York Library Annexe

All employees of York Teaching Hospital NHS Foundation Trust can join the Library. Please bring your staff ID card to the library counter at either site. An introduction and tour of the Library is available.

Advice and support can also be obtained via telephone, email or post.

Books and Journal

The Library has a wide range of titles covering all aspects of clinical and non-clinical services. Details of our collection can be accessed through the catalogue via the Hospital website www.york.nhs.uk If a journal article or book is not available, we may be able to obtain it from other libraries nationwide. Self issue machines are available at both sites.

Book postal loans are available to community based staff. Please see the Library web pages for more information.

E-Resources

Full-text journals, books and databases are available via www.evidence.nhs.uk. An Athens account is required to access these and you can register at the same website.

PC/Internet Access

PCs, printers, scanners and photocopiers are available at both Library sites, and 24/7 PC access at the Library Annexe.

Clinical Librarians

We can provide high quality information delivered at the point of need. We can join your team and provide immediate access to information in either a clinical or management setting.

Literature Searching

We provide an expert searching service which can range from a few references to a comprehensive overview to support your work, research, service improvement or audit. A mediated search or training session can be provided for education and study.

Database and Information Skills Training

We provide personalised 121 or group training in your workplace or in our training spaces. This can be tailored to your personal requirements.

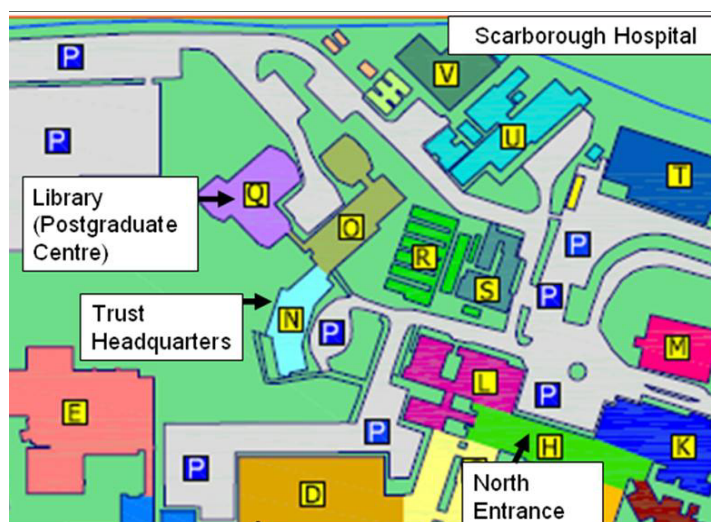

We welcome your feedback to improve our service, so please get in touch.
